IRR February 2019 Election Poll – Media Conference, 6 March

Tomorrow, Institute of Race Relations (IRR) Head of Politics and Governance, Gareth van Onselen, will present the results of the IRR's latest election poll. The results will include:

- National party support
- Western Cape provincial party support
- Gauteng provincial party support
- A range of turnout scenarios at national and provincial level
- An analysis of party support by race

The IRR's poll was conducted between 12 and 26 February 2019. The sample was fully demographically representative and comprised only registered voters. A total of 1,611 respondents were questioned. The national margin of error is 3.3%. Supplementing this were two fully demographically representative sub-samples for Gauteng (sample size: 502 registered voters) and the Western Cape (sample size: 405 registered voters). The margin of error for the Gauteng sub-sample was 3.8%, and for the Western Cape sub-sample, 5.9%. The confidence level is 95%.

All media are invited to attend.
